LEBLANC CNE HINDU KUSH MOROCCAN-STYLE HASH

Old-school processing meets a new recreational market with Moroccan-style strain-specific hash from LeBlanc CNE.

Moroccan-style hash is gathered by tumbling the top colas of the plant to collect the kif, made up of fine trichome heads and little to no plant matter. Pressed into the distinct circle with the LeBlanc symbol in the center, these hash coins represent the classic quality of the plant without any additives, in a way that's been made for thousands of years.

The material sourced for this hash is Clean Green certified, meaning no pesticides were used in the production of the plants. Without using any solvents or chemicals in the extraction process, this hash is the cleanest and purest essence of the plant, and at a tremendous value. Priced to $30 to $35 per gram, this hash delivers a lot of quality high for the dollar.

Our favorite element of the hash is the flavor, which smells like it came right out of the garden. Deep and loud earthy notes rip out of the container, with a thick and rich tickle that can only come from plant resins. This is the cream of the crop, with a sour then sweet funk that dazzles the mind and taste buds. As a solid indica strain, the mind is blurred first, with a massive body high quickly washing over into a euphoric couchlock mode.

The coins are solid to touch but break apart under a gentle steady pressure, with a barely sticky texture that holds together without becoming dusty or crumbly. You can spread it over a bowl of flower or smoke it individually, both bring a ton of pleasurable flavor.
