SEATTLE BUBBLE WORKS DEATH STAR

Temple Ball 54.63% THC | 5.79% CBG
These beautiful concentrates are made in a traditional method used for centuries by heating and pressing and rolling hash or kief (in this case ice water extracted bubble hash) until it forms a melty resinous texture and compresses, which reveals new flavors and changes the dynamic of the high. This hash is easily storable and ageable, with reserve stocks of hash known to cure and develop like wine over the course of years. The Death Star Temple Ball has floral and rich notes of chocolate and sweet skunk. The hash melts easily and has a rich, smooth and layered flavor, and a relaxing high that chills the body while imparting a happy CBG mood-elevating high.

BLING FACTORY WHITE ROMULAN

Rosin 58.27% THC
Lightly gooey and full of creamy woods and pine notes with a spicy OG exhale and a relaxing high with a sensory-energetic mind buzz.

A FIRST FOR THIS ISSUE is the Moroccan-style hash of Jerry Whiting and LeBlanc CNE, who we have featured before for his tumbled hash methods that are thousands of years old. What makes this issue special is the Hemp-hash, a first in NW Leaf publishing history. The CBD rich hash is pulled from select Oregon Hemp chemovars known for producing flavorful colas rich in CBD trichomes, and this hash is full of full plant medicinal values straight from a plant that is spreading across the country. Check out our review below, and all the great solventless examples of concentrates we have gathered for you!

LEBLANC CNE DJ SHORT'S BLUEBERRY Moroccan Hash

Creamy light notes of blueberry and floral kush drift out of this hash pastille, which crumbles with medium pressure and melts gently above a bowl or on its own, revealing a richer spectrum of blueberry flavors with an earthy tang and a relaxing, full body Indica high

LEBLANC CNE OREGON HEMP COLA MOROCCAN HASH

Mildly earthy with a light sweetness to it, this hash is made from pure hemp trichomes and is both so familiar and so different from regular Cannabis hash. Our first time smoking hemp, and in hash form, something that is truly unique and extremely special. A little denser than the Cannabis version, it reveals a salty-piney richness when crumbled before smoking, but transforms into a sweet and palate warming rich smoke when burned. It smokes more like a dense flower than a hash, cherrying and sending warm waves of smoke that impart instant mental clarity and focus, with a calm sense of well-being and a happy body high that settles in over the course of hours. A perfect way to enjoy smoking the same Hemp George Washington grow and loved, and with all the benefits of full plant CBD, we expect to see this spread in the future.

SOLVENTLESS HASH refers to hash, kief or rosin that has been processed and collected using only natural and sometimes ancient methods of extraction. These include ice water, which is used with filtered bags to create bubble hash, kief or sift, which can be separated by tumbling, sifting or beating trichomes off the plant, or rosin, which involves using heat to squish raw plant flowers or hash/kief previously extracted.
